Carta de Motivació

To be one of the training in the field of the company transforming operating systems. I feel very interested in this position since I think I could contribute my dedication and that I have been taught the first steps in professional life.

I am ready to start immediately and contribute significantly on the team with my technical skills. I consider that I have the skills needed to develop myself in this position and knowledge is a great opportunity to start working and expand experience. I am able to work both autonomously and in teams, which I think it allows me to adapt well to different work environments. I would love to have the opportunity to demonstrate how I can contribute to them my knowledge and skills in this position. I hope to have the opportunity to demonstrate my added value and contribute to the growth of the company.

I am at your disposal to give a personal interview.
